

Daily Legislative Update

Thursday, January 17, 2019

Committee meetings will continue this morning with an early session so that those from districts outside of Indianapolis can return home to their jobs and families for the weekend. As is the case with every Friday, the General Assembly will not conduct any committees or session tomorrow. Indiana lawmakers will enjoy an extra day off on Monday, as the Statehouse will be closed in observance of Martin Luther King Day. They will return on Tuesday to continue their legislative duties.

If you've been following along with House and Senate webcasts, you know that a number of bills are clearing first hurdles and making their way onto their respective chamber's floors for a full vote. Stay tuned as these bills will be heard by all members from both chambers and debated before being sent across the hall.

We will be sending each of you an updated bill tracking sheet tomorrow that will include all relevant bills now that filing deadlines have passed.
