

Daily Legislative Update

Tuesday, March 19, 2019

March Madness is now in full effect for thousands of Americans across the nation and is especially the case for many folks here in our basketball-rich state. The "Boilermaker Caucus" within the General Assembly now gears up for their school's shot in the Big Dance on Thursday while their Hoosier counterparts look optimistically to next season...

Nonetheless, legislative duties remain and on Monday legislators hit the ground running sending 9 more bills through 3rd reading and onto their next legislative stop. We expect this daily number to grow as we progress through the second half, so keep an eye on each chamber's Daily Actions tab located on the General Assembly's website below.

As mentioned yesterday, Senate Bill 552 (gaming) will receive it's first hearing in the House Public Policy committee this week and testimony from both sides of the proposal will be heard during the meeting. Chairman Smaltz announced yesterday that the hearing will take place at 3:30PM on Wednesday in Room 156-B. For those unable to attend, the committee meeting can be live streamed in its entirety by using the webcast links below.

The House gets an early start today as Family Affairs, Employment and a Select Committee on Government Reduction will each convene at 8:30AM. The Senate will follow with their Homeland Security and Corrections committees at 9:00 and 9:30AM respectively. Both chambers will gather for a 1:30PM session.
